Message from The Rector

We are highly pleased to present the Annual Report 2022 to our esteemed readers. This report includes descriptions of activities and achievements of PSC in its all related arenas, portraying the organization's continuous journey towards excellence. This year, the 11th Annual Conference of the International Association of Police Academies (INTERPA) was held in Dhaka from 12 to 14 September 2022 with the theme of "Digitalization of Policing". Police Staff College Bangladesh had the honor of hosting this conference. This year, Bangladesh was elected vice-president of INTERPA, a matter of great pride for us. The College also hosted the 18th Board of Governors (BoG) meeting of PSC.

Training is one of the most important tools for enhancing professional knowledge and capability of an organization. Proper and relevant training can give rise to a professional and qualified police service. PSC emphasizes problem-based and career relevant learning that enhances problem solving and critical thinking skills. This year, PSC has successfully completed all its scheduled courses. Throughout the year, PSC conducted five mid-career courses & twenty five partnership courses. The Research and Publication wing conducted two major research projects in the fiscal year 2021-22. Four seminars were organized in collaboration with the Human Rights Programme of UNDP Bangladesh. Besides, the Research and Publication wing conducted several seminars on methodology of research projects, which is expected to be instrumental in guiding the researchers to achieve optimum results and findings.

We have also completed enrollment of students of 7th Batch in the Master of Applied Criminology and Police Management (MACPM) course. The students of MACPM are composed of personnel from Bangladesh Police, the Armed Forces Division, as well as members of various government organs and private corporations. The Administration and Finance wing has worked all year for ensuring operational support. Over the past year a good number of infrastructural initiatives and renovations have been completed. The renovation work of the 2nd floor of the PSC Convention Hall was accomplished this year.

As you read this report, I hope you will gain insight into the breadth and depth of our activities. The ultimate success of our accomplishments depends on the dedicated contribution of our partners and dedicated staff.

I am immensely grateful to those individuals and partners who energize and strengthen us with their phenomenal support. As we look forward to another wonderful year at PSC, I wish all the very best for your good health and safety.

Executive Summary

This annual report is a testament to the journey of Police Staff College Bangladesh towards its long-term vision. Our annual goals are aligned with the aims and objectives of this institution, and signify a commitment towards achieving higher and aiming for greater goals. This report details our efforts to influence police leadership through training and research, sheds light on academic endeavors, highlights significant collaborations and elaborates our overall activities in the year 2022.

PSC succeeded in completing almost all of the scheduled activities in 2022. PSC hosted 42 training courses that included five Mid-career courses comprising of 1132 participants from various professions, ranks, and backgrounds. PSC also conducted several partnership courses with support from the United States and Spain, and organized four seminars on human rights and law enforcement related issues in collaboration with UNDP. Three research projects were competed under the UNDP project. The Research and Publication wing also accomplished two research projects in the fiscal year 2021-22.

This year, PSC's flagship Masters-level course on Applied Criminology and Police Management (MACPM) completed the 2nd semester final of the 5th batch. The 1st semester final for the students belonging to the 6th batch students was also completed. The admission process of the 7th of batch students is ongoing.

The Academic wing arranged several high-profile collaborations with globally renowned scholars in the field of law enforcement and criminology. Dr. Julian Droogan, an Associate Professor of Terrorism Studies at the Department of Security Studies and Criminology, Macquarie University visited PSC. He was the keynote speaker at a seminar titled "Global Trends of Terrorism." Dr. Peter William Neyroud, Director of the Police Executive Programme, Institute of Criminology of the University of Cambridge visited Police Staff College Bangladesh on 8 December, 2022. During his visit, PSC faculty members discussed collaboration efforts including Fellowship programs to facilitate the visit of Bangladeshi police officers to Cambridge.

The development of PSC's infrastructure is a continuous process, aimed at improving organizational efficiency by ensuring quality facilities for in-house staff and trainees. Over the past year, carefully planned infrastructural development projects and renovation works were undertaken. A good number of infrastructural initiatives and renovations are in progress. Renovation work on the upper floor of the PSC Convention Hall was completed in this year.

Overall, I am happy to see that PSC is marching forward with utmost vitality and creative energy on its journey toward excellence. In line with the institution's founding vision and the evolving strategies of Bangladesh Police within the broader perspective of Bangladesh's development journey, we at PSC are striving to attain excellence in all spheres of performance.

I would like to show my profound gratitude to the Rector and Vice-Rector of PSC for their unconditional support and valuable advice in preparing this Annual Report. I appreciate and thank all the PSC staff, in particular, the Research and Publication Wing for their diligence, hard work, sincerity, and assiduous effort to bring this report into existence.

It is my solemn hope that as the top think-tank of Bangladesh Police, Police Staff College will continually adapt and shine brighter in its goal of imparting relevant knowledge, which will be transformed into wisdom through dedication and perseverance.

Thank You.

Our Legal Basis

PSC works under the provisions of the Police Staff College Act, 2002.

What We Do

The purpose of Police Staff College Bangladesh (PSC) is to create sustainable, sound and work-based learning models which would support the police, government officials and relevant professionals of Bangladesh and around the globe to build safer and more resilient communities.

Objective

PSC's objective is to create an effective and meaningful environment for learning and research opportunities, provide outstanding educational facilities, and facilitate networks and collaborative partnerships for police and other relevant professionals from home and abroad to make our world safe and secure.

Our Strategic Goals:

To influence and enhance police leadership, prudence and professionalism

To establish innovative and work-based graduate learning programs

To provide value and insights gained from security, criminology and policing research to the national and international platforms

To promote mutual partnership and networking

To create a vibrant and quality learning environment

To meet these goals, PSC has outlined some overarching strategies.

- Develop and sustain current training programs to produce police leaders capable of meeting contemporary policing needs
- Offer graduate learning programs to the community to enhance academic literacy and wisdom
- Conduct evidence-based and applied research with a view to facilitating informed policy-making and assisting field-level practice
- Undertake integrated programs and augmenting partnerships and networks in the national and international level
- Ensure capacity building of staff and facilitate a quality learning environment

PSC's Cultural Tenets: The foundational stairway to achieving organizational goals

Overall, PSC tries to cultivate a high-performance culture in order to achieve excellence. The primary tenets include the following.

- We value our fellows and respect their potential to deliver quality training outcomes and services.
- We encourage critical thinking on barriers against smooth functioning of policing
- We support and promote partnerships and joint contributions
- We believe that a spirit of unity underpins our success
- We collaborate to make a difference

Our Structure

Asaduzzaman Khan, MP, Minister, Ministry of Home Affairs handing over a memento to the President of INTERPA Prof. Dr. Yılmaz Çolak

INTERPA stands for International Association of Police Academies. This worldwide association for cooperation in police training among police academies was founded in 2011. INTERPA membership includes 80 member institutions from 63 countries. The headquarters and secretariat of INTERPA are located in Ankara, Turkey.

The aims of INTERPA include the following, as per the official mandate.

- Maximizing the cooperation and coordination among the member police training institutions in the field of police training by optimizing the existing sources and sharing the best practices and researches carried out in this field,
- Making possible to conduct exchange programs among the national training institutions for directors, trainers and students from these institutions,
- Increasing the management capability of the high-level directors by means of joint programs.

Since the foundation of the association, INTERPA successfully organized and carried out 10 (ten) International Conferences. The 11th Annual INTERPA Conference with the theme of “Digitalization of Policing”, the General Council Meeting, and the 22nd Executive Board Meeting was held from 12th-14th September 2022. The four plenary session were held after the General Council Meeting and the Executive Board Meeting.

The General council meeting was attended by all participating institutions of member countries. The Executive Board consists of the President, Vice Presidents of the INTERPA, and five representatives from the highest level executives of member institutions. The Executive Board is the approval authority of activities and projects. It monitors the execution of the activities by the Secretariat. Executive Board makes decisions on structuring of the Association and establishing new councils, committees or commissions. After the successful completion of the Executive Board Meeting, the initiation of new members were conducted.

As the chief guest of the inaugural ceremony, Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina stressed the need for enhanced cooperation among the member countries of International Association of Police Academies (INTERPA) to fight tech-based crimes for furthering global peace, stability and development. “Enhanced technology, expertise, intelligence sharing and coordination among law enforcement agencies of all these countries will go a long way in curbing violent extremism and transnational tech-based crimes around the globe,” she said.

It is hoped this conference would afford all the member countries an opportunity to reach a general consensus to explore an innovative, viable, prompt and effective mode of communication and cooperation among INTERPA member countries.

“Digitalization of Policing” is really a time-befitting one, since violent extremism and transnational organized crime pose an enormous threat to national and international security in this age of globalization where boundaries matter little. In recent years, new development in technology and communications has enabled such crime networks to carry on their anti-human schemes with increased mobility. The theme of “Digitalization of Policing” was selected with a view to enhancing the global law enforcement efforts serve people better in a technology-enabled world.

INTERPA participants in a single frame

Participants of the INTERPA conference visited Jatiya Sangsad, Father of the Nation Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman’s memorial museum at Dhanmondi 32 and Rajarbagh Police Lines.

During the Conference, all members exchanged their experiences and best practices, shared research works in the field of policing and collaborated for the enhancement of management and training capacities of their national police training institutions. Institutionalizing a demand-driven and outcome-based platform to curb violent extremism and tech-based transnational crimes can ensure global peace and stability. We believe, the collective will and joint efforts by INTERPA members can make a marked difference in the security landscape of the globe.

The INTERPA platform embodies the spirit of cooperation and global collaboration in law enforcement training and research

Performance Analysis of PSC, 2022

Training and Curriculum wing

This Wing is headed by a Senior Directing Staff (SDS) in the rank of Deputy Inspector General (DIG) of Bangladesh Police and has a Member Directing Staff (MDS) ranked Additional Deputy Inspector General (Addl. DIG). This wing is composed of two Branches 1) Training and 2) Curriculum branch each branch headed by a Director in the rank of Superintendent of Police.

Training wing

PSC conducts the courses for the participants to raise the awareness about new ideas, perception, and thinking and develop appropriate knowledge, skill & attitude to respond to the changing need of the society. Improvement of operational performance of today's police service irrespective of developing and developed countries of the world usually calls for high quality training reflecting need based priorities for senior police officials.

Police Staff College Bangladesh conducts the courses for the participants to raise awareness about new ideas, thinking, perception, insight and vision to respond to the changing needs of the society. The institute endeavors to provide wisdom to the participants to improve managerial capability, operational performance, commanding skill and identification of problems with package prescription for solution in the context of national and international scenario. It helps the participants understand different aspects of Human Rights issues.

In future, the College will be a center for research studies on police subjects and will share ideas and experiences with similar institutes in and outside the country. Police Staff College Bangladesh has a vision for future prospect. It encourages the visitors and guest speakers from diverse backgrounds.

For example, government officials, academicians, renowned professors from different public & private universities, specialists on respective fields, former chief justices and members of the judiciary, reputed political personalities and high officials from Defense Services to come often to share their thoughts, experiences and ideas with the participants.

The Training wing constantly endeavors to update its training provision, curricula, delivery methods, and synchronize training outcomes with the field-level realities and evolving scenario of technology and crime.

Gender Inclusiveness in PSC Courses

PSC courses are inclusive to and focus on gender although the current scenario does not show an impressive figure due to the male female ratio in police is still heavily disproportionate, hence women are underrepresented in policing. A total of 1004 male and 126 female had participated in different PSC courses in this period. Last year male and female participant's ratio was 86:14. While this year male and female participant's ratio is 89:11.

Accommodating Wide Range of Participants

During the last year PSC provided training to total 1132 participants of Bangladesh Police officials in varying ranks. The highest numbers of trainees came from Additional SP rank which was followed by the rank of ASP. Among the total graduates, 72 were ASP, 133 were Addl SP, 63 were SP, 35 Additional DIG and 12 were of the rank of DIG. On the other hand, 85 were from outside police, and 91 were foreigners. These statistics show that PSC training programs are mostly attended by participants ranked Superintendent of Police, Additional Superintendent of Police and Assistant Superintendent of Police .

Participants' ratio of different ranks of Bangladesh Police

Among the total graduates of to the ranks of Inspector downwards, 57 constable, 27 ASI ,122 Sub Inspector and 48 were inspector. Last year the highest number of Sub Inspector graduates from the PSC under the training of ATA Courses.

Curriculum Branch

A vital component to design quality training

Curriculum development in PSC is grounded under various methods of training evaluation such as Training Impact Analysis and Training Need Assessment. PSC's curricula are planned in a purposeful, progressive, and systematic way to create positive improvements of the course contents. Every time there are changes or developments happening in the law enforcement related affairs or around the world, the PSC curricula are affected. It comes through a process of requirements from research output, organizational requirements, job task analysis, government and organizational training policy and Police policy group.

It gives priority on Training Need Assessment (TNA) and Impact Analysis of training. Findings from these processes are used to design the courses of PSC. Discussion groups, problem-solving exercises, case studies, field visits, panel discussions are arranged to provide necessary and advanced knowledge, skills and positive attitude to the participants. To put emphasis on these requirements, PSC invites resource persons and makes expert panel from different public universities, research organizations, policy analysts and retired experienced police officers. Course curricula are developed by PSC faculty in association with resource persons.

Curriculum Development

Curriculum development is an integral part of training. To make the training effective, fruitful and time befitting review of curriculum is necessary. Moreover, as time changes in a globalized world, new trends of crime emerge. Assessing threat of new trends of crime, especially crime related to terrorism, Police Staff College Bangladesh formulated the curriculum of the course on counter terrorism for SPs. This course curriculum covers transnational organized crime, investigating terrorist cases, terrorist financing, and intelligence and counter intelligence, cyber terrorism, militancy, and counter terrorism strategy. Another initiative of formulating training for Circle ASPs/Addl. SPs named 'Crime Administration Management Certificate Course' covering crime prevention and crime management, functions of Circle ASP/Addl. SP on the basis of Provision of PRB, inspection guidelines for Circle ASP/Addl. SP, supervision of investigation, recent crime trends and its management, community engagement, intelligence gathering, VCNB, TQM in investigation and other relevant issues. Furthermore, the digitalization process of curriculum is the innovative initiative of Police Staff College which is in the process of implementation in collaboration with Access to Information Program (A2I). It will create a conducive environment of e-learning process. Thus, the distant participants will be able to easily access to course materials of the Police Staff College Bangladesh. It is mentionable that curriculum section always updates the course curriculum with necessary contemporary issues so that participants can easily handle their upcoming professional challenges.

Selection of Resource Persons

Resource persons do not just add expertise but also make the course more interesting and attractive for the participants, as they can integrate their own experiences. Police Staff College Bangladesh selects resource persons from within or outside the organization. From outside the organization resource persons are generally from renowned university faculty, NGOs, senior civil service officers from ministry, senior officers from Armed Forces Division (AFD) etc.

Curriculum Development Process of PSC

Courses conducted by PSC are generally formulated through a long passage of curriculum development. It comes through a process of requirements from research output, organizational requirements, job task analysis, government and organizational training policy and Police policy group. It gives priority on Training Need Assessment (TNA) and courses are designed based on TNA findings. Discussion in groups, problem-solving exercises, case studies, field visits, panel discussions are arranged to provide up-to-date knowledge, skills and positive changes in attitude. To put emphasis on those requirements, PSC invites resource persons and makes expert panel from different public universities, research organizations, policy analysts and retired experienced police officers. Course curricula are developed by PSC faculty in association with resource persons.

Evaluation

Evaluation is considered as an important process of a training event in order to reflect, analyze and improve its effectiveness and efficiency. Police Staff College Bangladesh always incorporates an evaluation process in order to analyze and learn which elements have successfully achieved objective and which have failed to achieve purpose. Participant's evaluation is done by following 2 levels:

Level 1: Reaction: To what degree participants react favorably to the training. To measure reaction, develop ways to address some of the following questions:

- Did the training course participants believe that the training was worth the investment of their time?
- Which topics were most valuable; least valuable?
- Would they recommend this course to colleagues?

Level 2: Learning: To what degree participants acquire the intended knowledge, skills, attitudes, confidence and commitment based on their participation in a training event. These information are acquired by arranging a series of evaluation strategy like;

Pre-course evaluation

- i. Spot assessment
- ii. Area Distribution Class test
- iii. Presentation (Individual assignment, Group study, Docket analysis, Book review)
- iv. Final evaluation
- vii. Participation (Recap, Performance, Attendance, Discipline)

Pre-course Evaluation: The pre-course evaluation is an assessment of the participants through some short questions, multiple choice questions. It is administered at the very start of the each training course to assess what level the participants are in

Pre-course Evaluation

The pre-course evaluation is an assessment of the participants through some short questions, multiple choice questions. It is administered at the very start of the each training course to assess what level the participants are in regards to knowledge and course contents.

- ii. Class Test: Class test is conducted at the middle of each course to assess participant's knowledge level and to accelerate their performance during the program.
- iii. Final Evaluation: Once the course lectures are concluded, a final evaluation is conducted which extracts lessons learned from the course.

Letter	GPA	Numerical	Comments
A+	4.00	94 -100
A	3.50-3.75	86-93.99
B+	3.25	82-85.99
B	2.75-3.00	74-81.99
C+	2.50	70-73.99
C	2.00-2.25	62-69.99
C-	1.75	60-61.99
D	1.50	Below 59.99	Fail

iv. Presentation:

Police Staff College has arrangements for multimedia presentation to help the participants to:

- Communicate complex information in simple and interesting ways to give better understanding
- Communicate thoughts and feelings effectively
- Develop self-confidence
- Gain real-world skills, such as the ability to present accomplishments and skills

v. Participation:

Recap, Performance, Attendance, Discipline Course coordinator of any course evaluates every participant on the basis of performance in recap session, Performance, attendance and discipline. Speakers Evaluation: Every participant is supplied a speaker evaluation sheet each day and speaker's evaluation is done by the percentage marks given by the participants on the basis of the speaker's performance.

Criteria for evaluating the speakers are:

Analysis and Content

- Did the speaker answer the question?
- Was the content informative?
- Was there sufficient use of logic, facts, examples, and/or expert opinion?
- Was the information adequately documented?
- Was the information pertinent to the specific topic?

II. Delivery

- Language Style
- Was the language suitable to informing the audience?
- Was the delivery natural and spontaneous?
- Did it reinforce the ideas of the speech?

Challenges and Way Forward for Training Wing

- In-house facilitators: The current model for arranging resource persons depends PSC is very much dependent on outside speakers. Because of the frequent transfer of the faculty, PSC cannot develop its internal resource persons. It should have an internal panel of facilitators specialized on particular subject so that it can run its training sessions independently.
- Infrastructural facilities: It has limited scope of infrastructure facilities. Now the present facilities only can accommodate several certificate programs. Some long term courses need more facilities like seminar room, syndicate room etc.
- Vehicle support: Correspondingly PSC is lacking vehicle support for the participants and the guest speakers even for research which needs field study. In needs to be dependent on DMP or PHQ for vehicle support especially during its mega event like international conference or SAARC training.

PSC's Academic and Research Wing (A&R)

PSC's Academic and Research Wing (A&R) is dedicated to performing two distinct jobs¹) to administer PSC's academic programs such as the administration of its professional Master degree program, 'Master of Applied Criminology and Police Management' under the direction of the National University Bangladesh, and 2) to conduct cutting edge researches as directed by PHQ. This Wing is headed by a Senior Directing Staff (SDS) in the rank of Deputy Inspector General (DIG). This wing is composed of two Branches i) Academic Branch and ii) Research & Publication Branch each headed by a Member Directing Staff (MDS) in the rank of Addl. Deputy Inspector General (Addl. DIG) of Bangladesh Police. Each branch has a Director in the rank of Superintendent of Police. This wing maintains a close relation with the civil society where academicians, professionals and intellectuals are actively involved to provide academic insights on crime and criminology as well as research advice to Bangladesh Police for making a time befitting futuristic strategic policy.

Academic Branch

Academic branch is responsible for the conduction and supervision of academic degree of PSC. PSC is affiliated with National University having prime responsibility to monitor and administer the academic program. PSC has been offering a Master's on Applied Criminology and Police Management since 2016. A set of dedicated staff members are engaged in pursuing academic endeavors and conducting cutting edge research across a range of eco-social, criminological, security, policing and counter-terrorism issues. This Branch maintains a close relation with civil society where academicians, professionals and intellectuals are actively involved to provide academic insights on crime and criminology as well as research advice to Bangladesh Police for making a befitting futuristic strategic policy.

Goal: To establish innovative and evidence-based graduate learning programs

Strategic Priorities:

Responsibilities of Academic Branch

- Enrolment of students from diverse background to make the program more broad and interactive to fit with the public domain.
- Review of existing curriculum on the basis of work-based learning models to familiarize students with contemporary theory and best practices so that they can apply this knowledge to their real-world situations.

- Redesign the program structure and make it to trimester form to reduce the study load and provide a flexible learning structure
- Plan to introduce more graduate programs on various disciplines of crime and criminology arenas grounded under operational priorities of Bangladesh Police Engagement with international reputed academia for the credit transfers, exchange of lectures, developing pathways to undergo foreign degree/diploma/certificate programs and conducting joint research programs.
- Developing online resource access.

Overview of Master of Applied Criminology and Police Management

Master of Applied Criminology and police Management (MACPM) is designed to provide education to midlevel/ senior police officers (and non-police relevant personnel) on crime and justice with a strong emphasis on evidence-based policy and practice.

The program also prioritizes the development of leadership, management and policy skills, which will help to successfully run their organizations. This degree focuses on managerial and administrative issues that are faced by the police and non-police (relevant) organizations; methods to assess the issues in terms of their nature/ cause and probable effect on the organization; and impact of these issues on effective police (public) service delivery. Upon completion of the degree program, graduates will be better prepared to assume leadership roles and act as change agents in the (respective) department by conducting improved policy analysis, assessing police (service delivery) effectiveness through a rigorous research approach, and identify current trends in the areas of policing, criminal justice and criminology.

Overall, the Master's program offers an exciting blend of police and professional practioners from various disciplines, providing a unique classroom experience. The learning experience is further enhanced by the experienced and skilled faculty members, who bring in years of field experience and proffessional teaching expereince into the classroom. The constantly updated curriculum provides students with the opportunity to learn the subject matter in-depth. They can also avail the rich library support and enjoy the scenic PSC campus.

Distance Learning

The MACPM program run by the Academic Branch is a pioneer platform in Distance Learning. The classes on burning issues, important debates and criminology discourse are held through Distance Learning. Classes through Zoom, Skype and other video conference medium are conducted where the eminent scholars from the reputed foreign Universities chair the sessions and shares the learning and years of experiences in their respective fields of knowledge. This mode of education has enriched the PSC learning capacity way better than the traditional mode. The program also offers to introduce some of the most important theories and researches in applied criminology, leadership and police management. The program aims at developing the necessary to locate, interpret and analyze the research and other relevant source materials. At the same time, it also develops the conceptual understanding necessary to evaluate research methods and findings. The Master's program facilitates students in communicating the results of their ideas, research and its conclusions in written form as well as orally.

Research & Publication Branch

PSC is committed to undertaking and support research to deliver best practice police service to Bangladesh Police Community. PSC ensures research to be aligned with strategic priorities of Bangladesh Police Research Agenda. PSC's Research & Publication Branch is one of the research and knowledge centers on crime and justice in Bangladesh Police. It promotes the establishment of justice and reduction of crime through communicating evidence-based research findings into policy and practice. The research works here are regulated under Police Staff College Act, 2002.

The Functions of Research & Publication Branch

- Conducting research on policing, criminology, security and terrorism issues
- Communicating the results of research for police policy makers and other stakeholders
- Conducting or arranging conferences and seminars
- Publishing materials arising out of PSC's work in the form of newsletters, journals, books etc. These above functions are performed by two different Sections of this Branch: Fields of Research Our research themes speak for changes, provide gateway of modern policing and detect the impediments of existing policing system for its betterment.

Goal:

To provide value and insights gained from security, criminology and policing research to different stakeholders

Strategic Priorities:

- Communicate Evidence-Based Research to Policy and Practice
- Focusing and Broadening of PSC Functions

To meet its strategic goals, PSC is committed to undertake and support quality research to deliver best to the community. In this persuasion PSC's Academic & Research Wing is a dedicated research and knowledge center on crime and justice in Bangladesh Police. Its research priorities are aligned with Bangladesh Police Research Agenda. The main motto of PSC's research is to promote justice and reduce crime through communicating evidence-based research to policy and practice. The research works here are regulated under Police Staff College Act, 2002. The research outcomes are sent to the Police Headquarters for further action. During the year, PSC was regular in its research and publications. Two research projects were accomplished in 2020-21 and four were undergoing.

The research outcomes were valuable and insightful. Apart from this, PSC published its Newsletters and Annual Report as a regular fashion. Through academic persuasion, research and journal publication, PSC continues to build the bridges between contemporary policing and academia. PSC's research themes speak for changes, provide gateway to modern policing and detect the impediments of existing policing system for its improvement. The research activities of this Wing are guided by the Bangladesh Police Research Committee.

Challenges of Research & Publication Branch

- Managing experienced persons to conduct quality research: PSC needs more experienced as well as interested person to conduct quality research. PSC needs closer contact with PHQ so that officers who are dedicated and have thirst to research could be posted to PSC. Selection of experienced officers who are committed to research: The research works become sometimes difficult to accomplish within the existing legal framework of financial Acts, rules and regulations Insufficient funds for quality research
- Focusing on capacity building: PSC should focus more on capacity building initiatives for its research staff. In that case more academic training is needed for them especially overseas training. More participation on international seminars and conferences would be much worthwhile. Prioritizing PSC faculties for research and higher studies (M Phil /PhD) so that they get interest to serve at PSC.
- Ensuring digital library content: PSC's library needs to be more advanced in terms of both spaces and richness. It still does not have on line access to online books, R No plagiarism detection software to maintain academic honesty which is considered as a serious issue for research in national and international contexts.

Online Access: Police Staff College Bangladesh has access to electronic information resources through the UGC Digital Library (UDL). UDL is hosted by the University Grants Commission (UGC) of Bangladesh. UDL is providing access for the Staff College to a numerous international e-resources like Wiley, IEEE, World Scientific, Taylor and Francis Group, SAGE, Cambridge University Press, Springer, Pearson and Oxford University Press. This opportunity now offers police officers to get access to research articles from international journals on sociology, criminology and police science. The users can search, read and print the articles from these journals for personal use and academic purpose.

- Increasing scope of international and regional collaboration: MoU with national and international universities/ research institution: PSC can explore potential avenues of collaborations with local and foreign universities regarding joint research, capacity building, guest lectureship, faculty exchange, study tours of faculties and students.

Way Forward

Academic & Research Wing considers the following points for its future improvement:

1. Focus on capacity building: PSC should focus more on capacity building initiatives for its research staff. In that case more academic training is needed for them especially overseas training. More participation on international seminars and conferences would be much worthwhile.
2. Selection of experienced officers who are committed to research: PSC needs closer contact with PHQ so that officers who are dedicated and have thirst to research could be posted to PSC.
3. MoU with national and international universities/research institution: PSC can explore potential avenues of collaborations with local and foreign universities regarding joint research, capacity building, guest lectureship, faculty exchange, study tours of faculties and students. For example, PSC has an ongoing linkage with Macquarie University, Australia which offers a short training to PSC in its Sydney Campus in 2017 under Australia Awards Fellowships R 16.
4. Higher Studies for PSC Faculty: Prioritizing PSC faculties for research and higher studies (M Phil /PhD) so that they get interest to serve at PSC.
5. Academic honesty: Ensuring academic honesty and quality research through plagiarism detection software.
6. Online Access: Police Staff College Bangladesh has access to electronic information resources through the UGC Digital Library (UDL). UDL is hosted by the University Grants Commission (UGC) of Bangladesh. UDL is providing access for the Staff College to a numerous international e-resources like Wiley, IEEE, World Scientific, Taylor and Francis Group, SAGE, Cambridge University Press, Springer, Pearson and Oxford University Press. This opportunity now offers police officers to get access to research articles from international journals on sociology, criminology and police science. The users can search, read and print the articles from these journals for personal use and academic purpose.
7. Strengthening of manpower & logistics: Institutional persuasion is needed to increase permanent staff.
