MESSAGE

I feel a great pride and a deep sense of responsibility in presenting the Annual Report 2024 of the Police Staff College Bangladesh (PSC). This year has been one of remarkable progress, strengthened collaboration, and visionary transformation in our journey towards excellence in law enforcement training programmes and relevant research activities.

We are committed to our mission of enhancing police professionalism, leadership, and operational efficiency through cutting-edge training programs and innovative research initiatives. In 2024, we successfully conducted 27 training courses, introduced new academic programs, and fostered strategic partnerships with national and international institutions. Our collaboration with esteemed organizations, including INTERPOL, the US Embassy, and universities worldwide, has significantly contributed to the development of our police officers.

The establishment of the International Police Research & Innovation Centre (IPRIC) in the PSC marks a significant milestone in our pursuit of integrating technology, research, and contemporary policing practices. As law enforcement challenges evolve in the digital era, PSC remains at the forefront of developing knowledge-driven, and evidence-based solutions for policing.

I express my sincere gratitude to the Inspector General of Police, the Ministry of Home Affairs, our faculty members, and to all our partners for their unwavering support. Together, we will continue to uphold the values of prudence, innovation, readiness, commitment, and teamwork to build a safer and more secure future for Bangladesh.

Executive Summary

The Annual Report 2024 of the Police Staff College Bangladesh (PSC) presents a comprehensive overview of the institution's achievements, progress, and strategic initiatives in law enforcement training, research, and international collaboration. As the premier training and research institute for Bangladesh Police, PSC continues its commitment to developing professional leadership, advancing academic excellence, and fostering innovative policing strategies.

In 2024, PSC successfully conducted 27 training courses, including five mid-career programs, three Smart Policing courses, and specialized international training programs in collaboration with INTERPOL, UNDP, ICITAP, and the US Embassy. The institution also launched new academic programs, including the Postgraduate Diploma in Cyber Security (PGDCS) and Postgraduate Diploma in Security Management (PGDSM), to equip law enforcement officers with critical skills for modern policing challenges.

A key milestone was the establishment of the International Police Research & Innovation Centre (IPRIC), which focuses on cutting-edge research in areas such as cybercrime, artificial intelligence in policing, transnational crime, and community policing strategies. This initiative reinforces the role of Police Staff College as a global think tank in law enforcement innovation.

International collaborations of Police Staff College expanded significantly in 2024, with new partnerships formed with Macquarie University (Australia), Rashtriya Raksha University (India), and various embassies and law enforcement agencies worldwide. These collaborations facilitated international training programs, exchange initiatives, and research projects that have enhanced the professional capabilities of Bangladesh Police officers.

As part of this transformative journey, PSC is prioritizing the integration of cutting-edge methods and data-driven approaches into police education and training. By fostering a culture of continuous learning and innovation, the institution aims at developing future-ready police officers who can effectively respond to evolving security challenges. This initiative not only strengthens institutional capabilities but also reinforces public trust by promoting transparency, accountability, and service excellence in policing across Bangladesh.

This report highlights the significant strides made by PSC in training, research, curriculum development, and global engagement, demonstrating its unwavering commitment to excellence in police education and leadership development.

Police Staff College Bangladesh

Commencement of the Journey

Police Staff College Bangladesh started its journey on 30 November 2000 and emerged as a statutory organization under the Police Staff College Act, 2002. The first of its kind in the South Asia region, this institution is situated at Mirpur, Section 14, in the heart of Dhaka, the capital city of Bangladesh.

Location

The campus of Police Staff College Bangladesh sprawls across 19.5 acres of land adjacent to Shahid Police Smrity School & College and Public Order Management at Mirpur-14, Dhaka. It is located between Mirpur Circle-10 and Dhaka Cantonment. With its open fields, tranquil water body and well-kept premises, the PSC campus is a pleasantly scenic location in the heart of Dhaka metropolis. It offers an oasis of refreshing comfort and a soothing breathing space amidst the hustle and bustle of the capital.

Organization and Management

Police Staff College Bangladesh (PSC) is the apex training and research institute of the Bangladesh Police. It is responsible for imparting quality training to the Bangladesh Police, offering professional academic degrees, and conducting cutting-edge research on criminological issues, improving police operational performance, and community engagement, all geared toward the aim of enhancing safety and security.

Board of Governors

PSC is governed by a 13-member Board of Governors headed by the Honorable Minister, Ministry of Home Affairs. The dignitary members include Secretaries of the Ministry of Home Affairs, Ministry of Public Administration, Ministry of Finance, Ministry of Education, and Ministry of Law, Justice and Parliamentary Affairs, the Inspector General of Police, the Rector of Bangladesh Public Administration Training Centers (BPATC), the Commandant of Defense Services Command and Staff College (DSCSC), the Vice Chancellor of Jahangirnagar University, and the Additional Secretary of the Cabinet Division, with the Rector, Police Staff College Bangladesh as the member secretary of the board.

Management

The Rector, holding the rank of Additional Inspector General, serves as the executive head of the Police Staff College Bangladesh (PSC). Assisting the Rector is the Vice Rector, who holds the rank of Deputy Inspector General (DIG) and is responsible for all administrative concerns. The PSC operates under two wings, each overseen by a Deputy Inspector General (DIG). A Senior Directing Staff (SDS), ranked Deputy Inspector General (DIG), supervises the Training wing, while another SDS oversees the Academic and Research wing. Four Member Directing Staff (MDS) are also responsible for specific activities within their respective areas.

Administration and Finance Wing

Police Staff College Bangladesh (PSC) has an Administration and Finance wing, which provides essential support services to ensure smooth operations to all the wings. The Director, ranked Superintendent of Police, manages and supervises these support activities according to directives of the PSC authority.

Academic and Research Wing

Academic and Research Wing is engaged in conducting academic courses and facilitating cutting-edge research across a range of socio-economic, criminological, security, law enforcement and counter-terrorism issues. Under the supervision of this Wing, the second batch of the Master's degree program in Applied Criminology and Police Management is underway as a continuation of its commitment to excellence in academic endeavors.

Training Wing

The Training Wing of PSC offers training to enhance managerial capabilities, operational skills, leadership and farsightedness with a commitment to developing sound professionalism among police personnel. PSC's core training programs are primarily internal and conducted on campus, and it has a strategic vision to offer distance education programs. The duration of the core programs generally ranges from 2-3 weeks. PSC conducts courses in collaboration with national and international partners as well.

Since its inception, PSC's journey has been characterized by continual improvement and has gradually built a momentum of sustained progress. PSC's current performance has put it on track to achieve its strategic vision. The institution has broadened its network in the international arena, including the recent strengthening of collaboration with Macquarie University, Australia. PSC hosts international conferences and seminars in partnership with Interpol, the US Embassy, and with support from the Australian High Commission, as well as with the Canadian authorities. PSC is moving forward and endeavoring for excellence with a vision to establish itself as a regional and global think tank.

13th Annual INTERPA Conference on Artificial Intelligence in Policing: A Step Forward in Law Enforcement Innovation

The 13th Annual International Association of Police Academies (INTERPA) Conference was successfully convened from November 10 to 14, 2024, in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia. The event brought together 132 delegates from 29 member institutions and seven observer countries, emphasizing the vital role of Artificial Intelligence (AI) in contemporary policing. Police Staff College Bangladesh, as an active member of INTERPA, was notably represented by Dr. Mallick Faqru Islam, BPM, PPM, former Rector, and Isfaqul Kabir Sarker, former Assistant Superintendent of Police. Both delegates contributed significantly to the discussions, presentations, and decision-making processes during the conference.

Empowering Law Enforcement Through AI: Insights from the 13th Annual INTERPA Conference in Riyadh

This year's conference focused on the theme Artificial Intelligence in Policing, reflecting the growing importance of AI technologies in addressing contemporary security challenges. The event served as a platform to explore various dimensions of AI in law enforcement, including ethical considerations, practical applications, and potential challenges. A major highlight of the conference was INTERPA's Annual Meeting, which included the 26th Executive Board Meeting and the 13th General Assembly Meeting.

The conference emphasized the importance of adopting AI technologies to build smarter, more efficient policing systems. Key takeaways included skills development in AI to empower law enforcement personnel, collaboration and cooperation among police academies and training Institutes, establishing sound policies and frameworks for using AI technologies.

Performance Analysis

The year 2024 marked a significant period of progress for the Police Staff College (PSC), characterized by substantial momentum in its organization-wide efforts to realize its strategic objectives. PSC has broadened its scope of engagement beyond traditional law enforcement domains to encompass various government agencies and the non-government sector. The College has successfully delivered updated and advanced training programs, conducted targeted research initiatives, and provided expanded learning opportunities. Furthermore, PSC has significantly enhanced avenues for collaboration with international academic institutions, establishing partnerships. These developments underscore the College's vital role in promoting professional excellence, fostering innovation, and strengthening collaborative partnerships within the security sector and global community.

Administration and Finance Wing

Police Staff College's Administration and Financial Branch is responsible for the smooth administrative functioning of Police Staff College Bangladesh. Maintaining financial discipline is one of its crucial roles. Its other activities include maintaining discipline of the staff and general control and supervision of both police and ministerial level employees as per the direction of the Rector. This wing is headed by a Member Directing Staff, ranked Additional Deputy Inspector General of Police. Training and Curriculum Wing

This Wing is headed by a Senior Directing Staff (SDS) in the rank of Deputy Inspector General (DIG) of Bangladesh Police and a Member Directing Staff (MDS) in the rank of Additional Deputy Inspector General (Addl. DIG). This wing is composed of two Branches: 1) Training and 2) Curriculum branch, each branch headed by a director in the rank of Superintendent of Police (SP).

Training Branch

PSC conducts various courses for the participants to raise awareness about new ideas, perceptions, and thinking and develop appropriate knowledge, skills, and attitudes to respond to the changing needs of society. Improvement of operational performance of today's police service, irrespective of the countries from the Global North and the Global South, usually calls for advanced training reflecting need-based priorities for senior police officials. The institute endeavors to provide wisdom to the participants to improve managerial capability, operational performance, commanding skill, and identification of problems with package prescription for solutions in the context of national and international scenarios. In the future, the Police Staff College will be a center for research studies on police subjects and will share ideas and experiences with similar institutes in and outside the country. Encourages visitors and guest speakers from diverse background; for example, government officials, academicians, renowned professors from different public and private universities, specialists on respective fields, former advisors of the government, former chief justice, reputed political personalities and high officials from Armed Force to come often to share their thoughts, experiences and ideas with the participants.

Training Mandate

- To impart training to officials ranked ASP and above within the police organization
- To organize & conduct national & international conferences, seminars, and symposiums on subjects related to police administration & management, and other relevant topics.
- To develop training curricula
- To award certificates after successful completion of courses and trainings

Evolution of Training

- PSC emphasizes conceptual integration among the BCS cadre officers
- PSC nourishes innovation and creativity in training activities
- PSC focuses on need-based training
- Training courses are reviewed in line with the current priorities

Challenges and Way Forward

- In-house Facilitators or Resource Persons

The current approach to engaging resource persons at PSC relies heavily on external speakers. Due to frequent faculty transfers, PSC faces challenges in developing and maintaining a stable pool of internal resource personnel. To enhance sustainability and self-reliance, it is recommended that PSC establish an internal panel of facilitators with specialized expertise in specific subject areas. This will enable the institute to conduct training sessions independently and ensure continuity of quality training delivery.

- Infrastructural Facilities

The current infrastructure facilities are limited in scope. Presently, the available facilities can only support a limited number of certificate programs. To accommodate long-term courses, additional facilities such as a seminar room and syndicate rooms are required to ensure effective delivery and a conducive learning environment.

- Vehicle and Transportation support

PSC currently lacks dedicated vehicle support for participants and guest speakers, including transportation for field research activities. As a result, it relies on DMP and PHQ for vehicle assistance, particularly during major events such as international conferences and training programs. Providing dedicated transportation resources would enhance operational efficiency and ensure the smooth conduct of PSC's activities and events.

Overseas Programme Branch

The Overseas Training Branch at the Police Staff College Bangladesh is tasked with organizing and facilitating international training opportunities for senior police officers. This branch prioritizes the establishment and maintenance of strategic partnerships with foreign law enforcement agencies, academic institutions, and training organizations to deliver specialized courses and professional development programs. Through the coordination of these overseas training initiatives, the branch ensures that police officers gain exposure to best practices globally, thereby enhancing their skills and broadening their perspectives in alignment with international standards. The branch plays a vital role in fostering international collaboration and cultivating a culture of continuous learning within PSC. Overseas Programme Branch is led by a Director appointed at the rank of Superintendent of Police.

Curriculum Branch

Curriculum Development: A Vital Component to Design Quality Training

Curriculum development is based on various methods of training evaluation, such as training impact analysis and training needs assessment. The curricula for Police Staff College are carefully planned in a purposeful, progressive, and systematic manner to ensure continuous improvement of course content. These curricula are regularly updated to reflect changes and developments in law enforcement and global affairs that may affect training needs. This process is driven by research outputs, organizational requirements, job task analysis, as well as government and organizational training policies, including input from police policy groups.

The focus is on Training Needs Assessment (TNA) and training impact analysis. The findings from these evaluations are used to design the Police Staff College Bangladesh courses. To enhance learning, the curriculum incorporates group discussions, problem-solving exercises, case studies, field visits, and panel discussions to provide participants with advanced knowledge, skills, and a positive attitude. To meet these educational requirements, Police Staff College Bangladesh invites resource persons and forms expert panels consisting of professionals from public universities, research organizations, policy analysts, and retired senior police officers. The course curricula are developed by Police Staff College Bangladesh faculty in collaboration with these resource persons.

Curriculum Development

Curriculum development is a crucial aspect of training. To keep training effective, relevant, and timely, regular curriculum reviews are essential. With globalization, new crime trends like cybercrime, transnational crime, and terrorism continue to emerge. In response, the Police Staff College Bangladesh has developed a specialized, contemporary curriculum for various training courses, integrating best practices, advanced technology, and relevant legal frameworks to equip law enforcement for the complexities of modern policing.

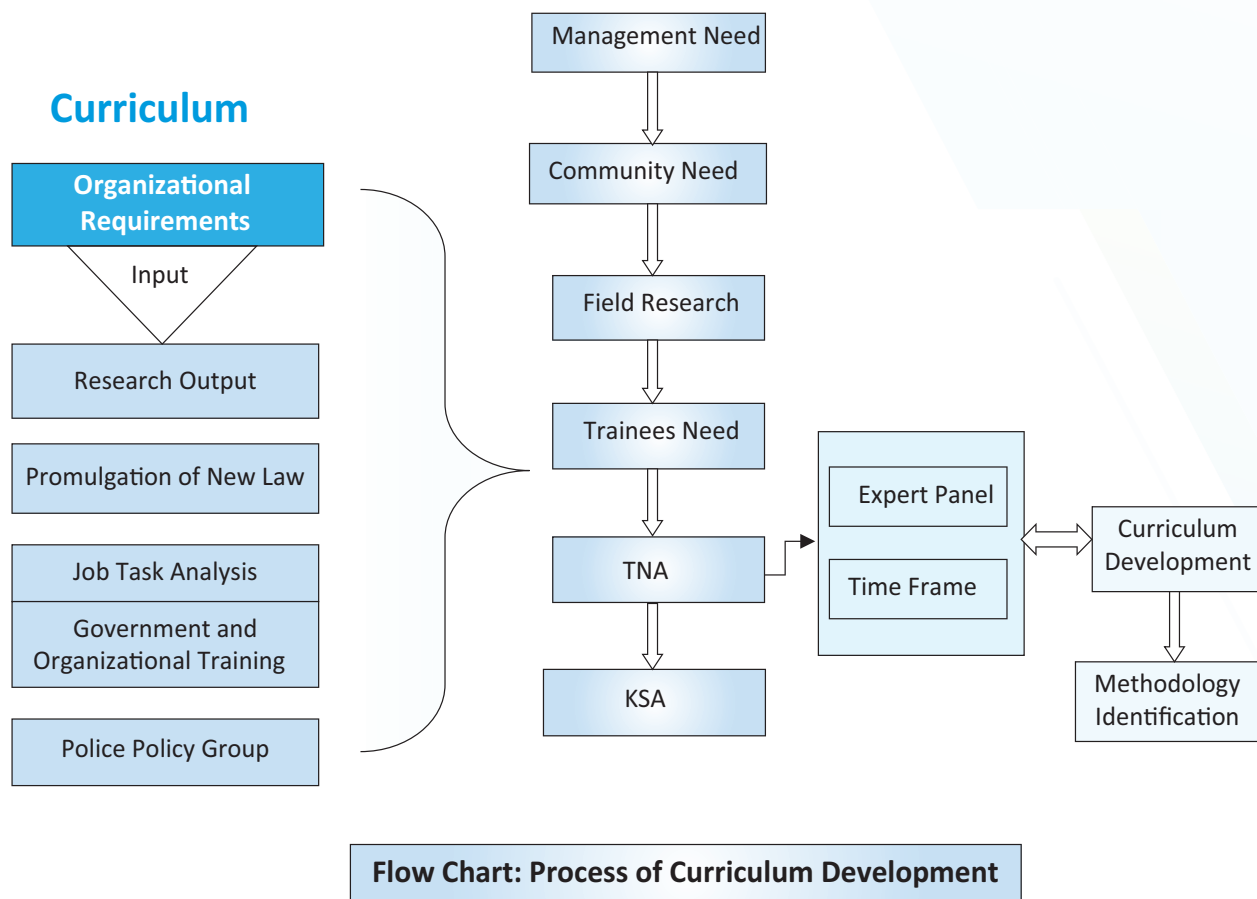

The curricula of these courses encompass a broad spectrum of topics, including transnational organized crime, terrorism investigation, terrorist financing, intelligence operations, cyber terrorism, militancy, counter-terrorism strategies, as well as financial, administrative, and other pertinent issues related to policing. Additionally, an important initiative involves the development of the Pro-People Policing through Conventional and Technology-Based Management Training Course for Superintendents of Police (SP). This program is designed to equip SPs with contemporary, conventional, and tech-based driven management skills that promote pro-people policing, foster public trust, enhance community engagement, and augment overall law enforcement effectiveness through the utilization of innovative training methodologies.

Curriculum Development Process

Courses conducted by the PSC are typically developed through a comprehensive curriculum development process. This process is informed by research outputs, organizational requirements, job analysis, government and organizational training policies, and input from police policy group. Training Need Assessment (TNA) is given priority, and courses are designed based on the findings from this assessment.

To provide participants with up-to-date knowledge, skills and foster positive changes in attitude, the curriculum includes group discussions, problem-solving exercises, case studies, field visits, and panel discussions. To ensure these objectives are met, PSC invites resource persons and forms expert panels with professionals from public and private universities, research organizations, policy analysts, and retired senior police officers. The course curricula are developed by PSC faculty in collaboration with these resource persons. The process of Curriculum Development of Police Staff College Bangladesh is appended below:

FLOW CHART OF CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT

Evaluation

Evaluation is regarded as a crucial process in any training event, as it helps assess and improve its effectiveness and impact. The PSC consistently incorporates an evaluation process to analyze and determine which aspects of the training have successfully met the objectives and which have not. Participant evaluation is conducted at the following levels:

Level 1: Response

This measures the extent to which participants react positively to the training. To gauge this, the following questions are considered:

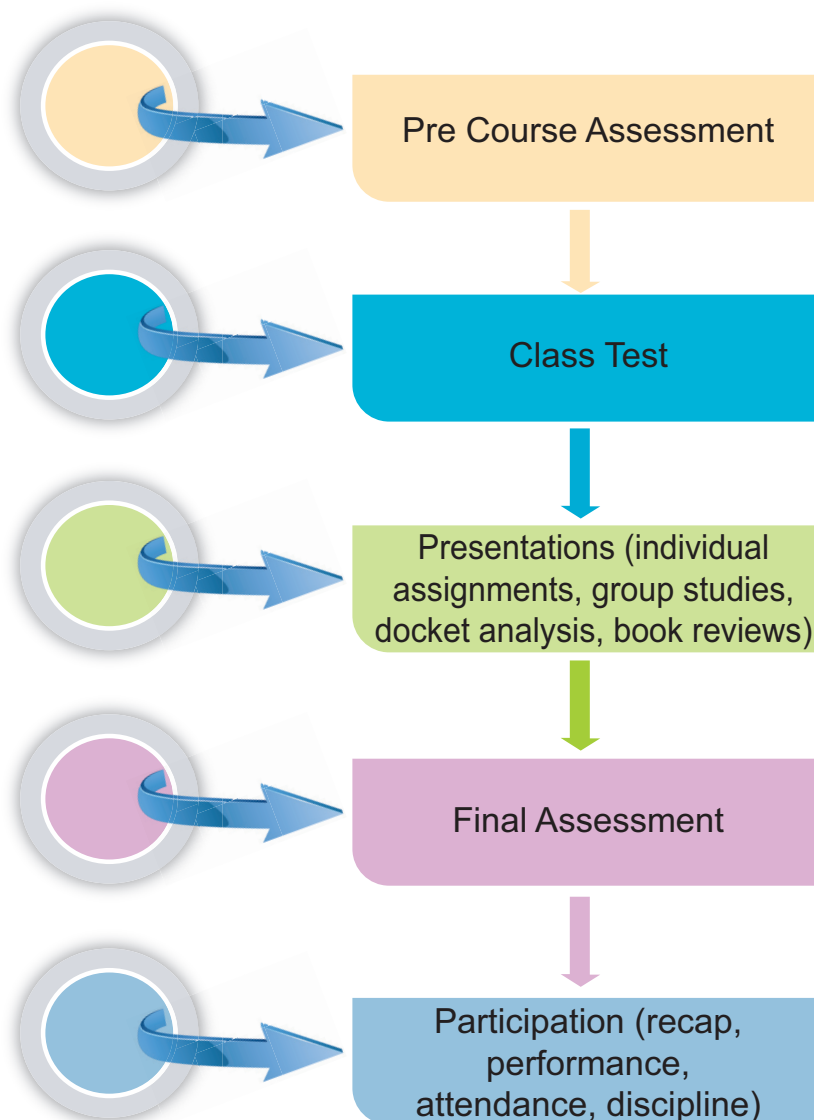

- Did participants feel the training was worth the investment of their time?
- Which topics were most valuable, and which were least valuable?
- Would they recommend this course to their colleagues?

Level 2: Learning

This evaluates the extent to which participants have acquired the intended knowledge, skills, attitudes, confidence, and commitment as a result of the training. Information on learning outcomes is gathered through various evaluation strategies, such as:

Course Evaluation

Pre Course Assessment: The pre-course evaluation is conducted before the kick-off of each training course. It consists of short questions and multiple-choice questions designed to assess the participants' current knowledge level and familiarity with the course content.

Class Test: A class test is administered midway through each course to evaluate the participants' understanding of the material and to help improve their performance throughout the program.

Presentation: The PSC provides multimedia presentation facilities to help participants:

- Communicate complex information simply and engagingly to enhance understanding
- Express thoughts and feelings effectively
- Build self-confidence

Final Assessment: After completion of course curriculum, a final assessment is conducted to capture the key lessons learned and assess the overall effectiveness of the course.

Presentation: The PSC provides multimedia presentation facilities to help participants:

- Communicate complex information simply and engagingly to enhance understanding
- Express thoughts and feelings effectively
- Build self-confidence

Develop real-world skills, such as presenting achievements and capabilities

Participation: The course coordinator evaluates each participant based on their performance in recap sessions, overall performance, attendance, and discipline.

Evaluating the Speakers: Speakers are evaluated based on the ratings provided by participants, which reflect the speakers' performance during the course.

Curriculum Enrichment through International Training Partnerships

Police Staff College Bangladesh is proud to have conducted a substantial number of courses in collaboration with international partners. Through these partnership efforts, the PSC's Curriculum Section continually advances its programs. Numerous esteemed international training organizations, such as INTERPOL, UNODC, Macquarie University, ATA, ICITAP, and the US Department of Justice, along with organizations like the US Embassy, have expressed interest in providing training to Bangladesh Police participants through their scheduled programs, which are highly relevant to the stakeholders.

Academic and Research Wing

Academic and Research Wing of Police Staff College Bangladesh is dedicated to performing two distinct functions: (1) administering academic programs, such as the management of its Professional Master's degree program, 'Master of Applied Criminology and Police Management (MACP)' under the National University of Bangladesh, and (2) conducting cutting-edge research as directed by Police Headquarters. This wing operates through two branches: the Academic Branch and the Research & Publication Branch. Each branch is led by a Director who holds the rank of Superintendent of Police. This wing maintains close relations with civil society, where academicians, professionals, and intellectuals are actively involved to provide academic insights on crime and criminology, as well as research advice to Bangladesh Police for formulating timely, forward-looking strategic policies.

Academic Branch

The Academic Branch of the Police Staff College (PSC) is the cornerstone of academic excellence within the institution, overseeing and managing academic programs in affiliation with the National University. With a steadfast commitment to innovation and intellectual growth, the branch ensures the effective administration, continuous enhancement, and expansion of its academic offerings. Since 2016, PSC has been offering a Master's program in Applied Criminology and Police Management (MACPM), a rigorous, research-driven program designed to cultivate expertise in criminology, security, policing, and counter-terrorism. The program is supported by a dedicated team of scholars and professionals engaged in pioneering research to address contemporary law enforcement and security challenges. Through strategic engagement with civil society, the Academic Branch fosters collaboration with academicians, professionals, and intellectuals, creating a dynamic platform for knowledge exchange. This collaboration enables the branch to provide valuable insights into crime, criminology, and policing while advising Bangladesh Police on evidence-based strategies and policy development for a more effective and future-ready law enforcement framework.

Key Developments and Milestones

The year 2024 has been a landmark period for PSC, characterized by significant academic and institutional advancements:

- Completion of the 7th batch of the MACPM program, marking another successful cycle of professional education.
- Ongoing academic activities for the 8th batch of MACPM, further strengthening the institution's role in training and capacity building.
- Launch of the 1st batch of the Postgraduate Diploma in Cyber Security (PGDCS), addressing the growing need for expertise in cyber threats and digital forensics.
- Initiation of the 1st batch of the Postgraduate Diploma in Security Management (PGDSM), reinforcing PSC's focus on security studies and risk mitigation strategies.
- Admissions process underway for the 9th batch of MACPM, ensuring continuity in the institution's flagship program.

Recognizing the increasing complexities of modern policing and cybersecurity, PSC has taken proactive steps to enhance its technological capabilities. A state-of-the-art Cyber Lab has been established with the support of Police Headquarters, equipped with cutting-edge tools for digital forensics, cyber threat intelligence, and advanced security analytics. Additionally, the launch of the Postgraduate Diploma in Security Management (PGDSM) in February 2025 will further augment PSC's academic portfolio, equipping professionals with specialized knowledge to counter evolving security challenges.

The below-mentioned table delineates the array of academic programs offered by PSC, including their respective affiliating university and the year of affiliation, thereby highlighting the institution's commitment to advancing specialized education in policing, cybersecurity, and security management.

SI	Academic Program	University with Accreditation	Year of Accreditation
1	Masters in Applied Criminology and Police Management (MACPM)	National University	2015
2	Postgraduate Diploma in Cyber Security (PGDCS)	National University	2024
3	Postgraduate Diploma in Security Management (PGDSM)	National University	2024

Vision and Strategic Priorities

Goal: To establish innovative, evidence-based graduate learning programs that enhance professional expertise, drive academic excellence, and foster leadership in law enforcement.

Strategic Priorities

- Expand Graduate Programs: Introduce new academic offerings to strengthen academic literacy, critical thinking, and professional knowledge within the law enforcement community.
- Enhance Access to Online Resources: Develop digital learning platforms to facilitate continuous academic engagement while upholding academic integrity and ethical standards.
- Strengthen Global Collaborations: Establish partnerships with international universities and research institutions for faculty exchanges, credit transfers, and joint research initiatives.
- Redesign Academic Structures: Transition to a trimester-based academic system to optimize learning experiences, reduce study loads, and increase flexibility for working professionals.
- Develop Multidisciplinary Programs: Expand educational offerings in criminology, security studies, cybersecurity, and law enforcement strategies aligned with Bangladesh Police's operational priorities.

Responsibilities of the Academic Branch

The Academic Branch is entrusted with several critical functions that contribute to the institution's success and impact:

- Student Enrollment and Diversity: Attract and enroll students from diverse professional backgrounds to create an inclusive and interactive learning environment enriched by multidisciplinary perspectives.
- Curriculum Review and Enhancement: Regularly assess and update program curricula based on modern work-based learning models, ensuring alignment with contemporary best practices and real-world applications.
- Digital Learning and Online Resources: Develop and expand online educational platforms, providing students and faculty with access to cutting-edge academic materials and research databases.
- International Academic Collaborations: Strengthen alliances with globally reputed institutions for knowledge exchange, faculty exchanges, and collaborative research projects.
- Applied Research and Policy Development: Conduct in-depth studies on law enforcement strategies, criminal justice reforms, and emerging security threats, contributing to evidence-based policymaking.

Masters in Applied Criminology and Police Management

The Masters in Applied Criminology and Police Management (MACPM) program is a transformative educational initiative designed to equip mid-level and senior police officers, along with professionals from related disciplines, with the critical skills needed to navigate the complexities of crime and justice. This program places a strong emphasis on evidence-based policy and practice, enabling participants to develop expertise in leadership, law enforcement management, and strategic policy formulation.

Graduates of the program emerge with enhanced competencies in policy analysis, law enforcement effectiveness assessment, and contemporary criminological research, empowering them to drive meaningful change within their respective organizations.

Program Objectives

The MACPM program is structured to achieve the following key objectives:

- Advance Professional Development: Enhance career prospects and academic excellence among police officers and qualified professionals.
- Deliver an Up-to-Date Curriculum: Introduce participants to modern theories, practices, and trends in policing, criminology, and criminal justice administration.
- Strengthen Analytical and Research Skills: Equip students with the ability to critically assess and analyze complex security challenges through data-driven methodologies.
- Promote Knowledge Dissemination: Empower participants to apply their learning in real-world policing, security management, and policy implementation.
- Foster Evidence-Based Decision-Making: Develop expertise in utilizing research insights to shape policies, enhance operational effectiveness, and address pressing law enforcement issues.

Program Structure

To obtain the MACPM degree, students must complete a total of 42 credit points. Each course carries 4 credits, except for the Capstone Project/Master's Thesis, which accounts for 6 credits. The program follows a structured semester-based approach, with each term lasting 20-22 weeks. Assessment methods include assignments, presentations, written examinations, research projects, and case study analyses to ensure a comprehensive evaluation of students' knowledge and skills.

Diversity: A Pillar of the MACPM Program

A defining strength of the MACPM program is its rich diversity, bringing together professionals from various sectors, including police officers, armed forces personnel, corporate executives, lawyers, educationists, and security specialists. This interdisciplinary learning environment fosters cross-sectoral collaboration, enhances knowledge sharing, and broadens perspectives on crime prevention, justice administration, and law enforcement strategies.

MACPM: Professional Diversity from 1st to 7th Batch

Sl	Professionals	Number of Professionals
1	Police Officers	100
2	Armed Forces Officers	10
3	Government Officials	21
4	Teacher	18
5	Lawyer	29
6	Doctor	2
7	Corporate executives	59
8	Business	7
9	Self-employed	8
Total Students (up to 7 th batch)		254

A Degree that Transforms Career

The MACPM program goes beyond an academic credential—it's a catalyst for transformation, equipping graduates to lead, innovate, and reform law enforcement and security at the highest levels. With a focus on strategic leadership, evidence-based decision-making, and real-world application, this program empowers professionals to shape the future of policing, drive systemic change, and make a lasting impact in public safety and criminal justice.

Post-Graduate Diploma in Cyber Security

The Post-Graduate Diploma in Cyber Security (PGDCS), offered by Police Staff College Bangladesh, is an intensive, technology-driven academic program designed to build the cybersecurity expertise of police professionals. This highly specialized program focuses on the core principles, investigative techniques, and emerging trends in cybersecurity, ensuring that officers can proactively safeguard digital infrastructure and respond to cyber threats with precision. Through a combination of theoretical instruction, real-world case studies, and hands-on lab exercises, students develop the skills necessary to identify, prevent, and investigate cyber threats and digital crimes effectively.

Key Focus Areas

The curriculum of the PGDCS program is carefully crafted to cover a broad spectrum of cybersecurity disciplines, ensuring that graduates develop expertise in both technical security measures and legal frameworks governing cybercrime.

Program Objectives

The PGDCS program is designed with a mission-driven approach to empower law enforcement officers with the expertise needed to navigate the increasingly digital landscape of crime. Its core objectives include:

- Building a Highly Skilled Cybersecurity Force

Providing specialized knowledge and technical training to police professionals, equipping them with expertise in cyber threat mitigation, digital forensics, and security protocols.

- Bridging the Gap Between Law Enforcement, Academia, and Industry

Facilitating collaboration between policing institutions, academic researchers, and cybersecurity professionals, fostering an interdisciplinary approach to combating cybercrime.

- Enhancing National Cybersecurity Infrastructure

Strengthening the Bangladesh Police's ability to detect, investigate, and neutralize cyber threats, thereby contributing to the nation's overall digital security strategy.

Program Structure and Duration

The Post-Graduate Diploma in Cyber Security (PGDCS) is a rigorous, 10-month program designed for law enforcement professionals seeking in-depth expertise in cybersecurity and digital investigations. The program structure is as follows:

- Total Credit Hours

40 credits

- Duration

Two semesters (18 weeks each)

■ Class Format

A blended learning approach combining lectures, lab-based practical sessions, and case study-driven discussions

■ Session Durations

Theoretical Classes: 50 minutes per session

Practical Lab Sessions: Minimum of 90 minutes per session

1st Batch: Police Personnel from Different Ranks for the PGDCS

SI	Rank of Police Officers	Number of Officers
1	Deputy Inspector General	01
2	Additional Deputy Inspector General	04
3	Superintendent of Police	06
4	Additional Superintendent of Police	12
5	Assistant Superintendent of Police	07
6	Inspector	09
Total		39

Post-Graduate Diploma in Security Management

The Post-Graduate Diploma in Security Management (PGDSM) is a leading program designed to develop forward-thinking leaders in the security sector. This rigorous and dynamic program equips participants with strategic insights, cutting-edge methodologies, and practical skills essential for excelling in security management roles.

A Comprehensive Approach to Security Management

PGDSM offers a holistic curriculum that blends theoretical knowledge with real-world application, providing participants with a thorough understanding of:

- Crime Prevention Theories – Mastering fundamental principles of security and criminal deterrence.
- Security Risk Assessment – Identifying vulnerabilities and mitigating threats through proactive strategies.
- Contemporary Security Issues – Addressing modern security challenges, including cyber threats and terrorism.
- Private Security Development – Understanding the evolution, expansion, and governance of private security services, particularly in Bangladesh.

Designed for both law enforcement officers and civilians, the program fosters an inclusive environment that encourages collaboration and knowledge exchange across various professional backgrounds.

Globally-Trained Police Practitioners and Industry Experts

The PGDSM programme will be led by a distinguished faculty comprising renowned academics from prestigious national and international universities, alongside seasoned security professionals with extensive field experience. This powerful combination of theory and practice will ensure that students gain cutting-edge insights and actionable knowledge directly applicable to the industry.

Objectives

The PGDSM is structured to achieve three key objectives:

- Comprehensive Security Education: Deliver advanced theoretical and practical knowledge in security management, preparing students for leadership roles.
- Professional Development: Strengthen critical thinking, analytical reasoning, and leadership skills essential for security professionals.
- Technology and Innovation: Provide hands-on exposure to modern security tools, risk assessment models, and strategic management techniques.

Program Structure and Assessment

The PGDSM is a 40-credit hour program, integrating rigorous coursework with a 4-credit Internship/Capstone Project to bridge the gap between academic learning and industry application. Each 21-week semester employs a diverse range of assessment methods, including:

- Quizzes and Mid-term Exams – Measuring conceptual understanding and practical application.
- Research Papers and Case Studies – Encouraging critical analysis of contemporary security challenges.
- Class Presentations and Collaborative Projects – Enhancing leadership, communication, and strategic decision-making skills.

A Celebration of Diversity

One of PGDSM's greatest strengths is its diverse cohort of professionals, fostering a multidisciplinary approach to security management. Our program brings together participants from varied industries, including:

This dynamic mix of backgrounds ensures a stimulating learning environment, where students benefit from shared expertise, cross-industry perspectives, and extensive networking opportunities.

1st Batch: Professional Diversity of PGDSM

Sl	Professionals	Number of Professionals
1	Police Officers	13
2	Armed Forces Officers	03
3	Corporate Jobholders and Security Companies	15
Total Students (1st batch)		31

Research and Publication Branch

Police Staff College Bangladesh is committed to advancing its status as a “Centre of Excellence.” The Research and Publication Branch of PSC plays a pivotal role in fostering evidence-based policing through the conduct of comprehensive studies, analysis of crime trends, and formulation of policy recommendations. In its pursuit of global standards, PSC has initiated the establishment of a dedicated research centre, which has culminated in the emergence of the Institute of Police Research and Innovation in Crime (IPRIC). IPRIC emphasizes active citizen participation in matters concerning police policies, aiming to bridge the gap between the public and law enforcement agencies. By fostering this connection, IPRIC aspires to empower citizens and promote their vested interest in societal security. The branch prioritizes generating high-quality research and data, particularly focusing on public perceptions and opinions regarding law enforcement, with an emphasis on engaging youth in Bangladesh through innovative methodologies. This approach ensures that diverse perspectives are presented through an unfiltered platform, thereby informing and shaping policies toward more people-centric policing strategies in Bangladesh.

Goals of Research and Publication Branch

- Research of exemplary quality that comprehensively captures and reflects the concerns and priorities of the community
- Distinctive platforms dedicated to providing researchers with avenues to express their perspectives on people-centric policing
- Assurance of the highest standards of publications and blog content.
- Serving as the forefront of marketing and promoting police-related research efforts through traditional and social media outlets.

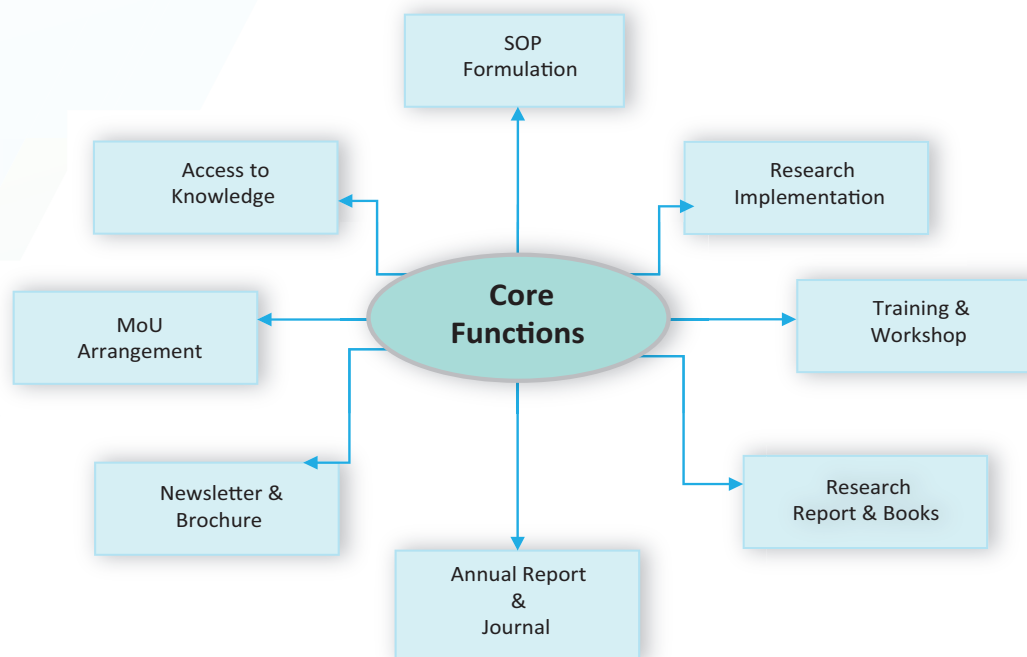

Area of Research

Smart Policing and Contemporary Policing Practices

- Artificial Intelligence and Advanced Technology
- Juvenile delinquency and gang culture
- ICT, social media, cybercrime and cyber security
- Human resource development and organizational restructuring
- Innovation and global best practices in police work
- Mega Project Security and its impact on socio-economic development
- Transnational organized crime
- Human rights and gender issues
- Environmental crime and protection of wildlife
- Migrants and refugee issues

Functions

With a vision of creating a platform for sharing research findings, best practices, and innovative approaches to policing as well as contributing to the development of national and international policing standards and policies, the core functions of the branch are presented following the graph.

Highlights: Year 2024

■ Research Institution in Operation

International Police Research and Innovation Centre (IPRIC)

■ MoU

Accomplished MoU with United International University

■ Publications:

- Annual Report
- Newsletter
- Journal
- Smart Policing Curriculum Book (Bangla & English)

■ Completed Research

- “A study about an Analysis of Strategy Plan GIS Dashboard Prepared”
- “Challenges in Cybercrime Prosecution: A Study in Cyber Tribunals”

■ Ongoing Research

1. Student-led Mass Movement of July August 2024 and Reshaping of Policing in Bangladesh: Lessons Learnt and the Ways Forward
2. Prevention of Environmental Crime and Wildlife Trafficking Scope of Legal Action and Role of Police

Major Challenges of Research and Publication Branch

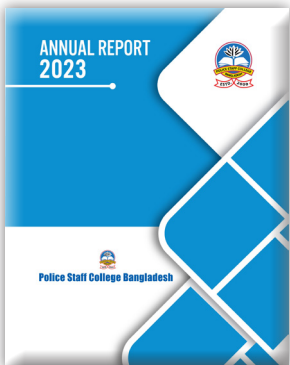

- Managing experienced scholars for conducting quality research
- Focusing on capacity building
- Ensuring digital library content
- Increasing scope of international and regional collaboration: MoU with national and international universities/ research institutions

Way Forward

- Focus on capacity building
- Selection of experienced officers who are committed to research
- MoU with national and international universities/research institutions
- Higher studies for Police Staff College faculty
- Online library access
- Strengthening the manpower and logistics supports

The Research and Publication Branch remains committed to enhancing the effectiveness of law enforcement through rigorous research, strategic recommendations, and impactful publications. We aim to build a safer and more resilient Bangladesh by embracing technological advancements and fostering collaborative efforts.

IPRIC Embarks on Its Journey: Leading the Way in Innovation and Excellence

The International Police Research and Innovation Centre (IPRIC) was officially inaugurated on July 3, 2024. Established as a dedicated research hub, IPRIC aims to enhance the relationship between law enforcement agencies and the public through rigorous research and data analysis. Its mission involves exploring contemporary issues in policing and promoting innovation through collaboration with trained professionals, subject matter experts, and academic institutions. By fostering research and technological advancement, IPRIC aspires to influence the future development of policing practices.

Pioneering the Future of Policing: IPRIC's Modern Infrastructure at the Forefront

Mission

Conducting Police research and working on innovative police issues through trained professionals, experts and academia.

Vision

Shaping the future of the police professionals through the advancement of research and innovation.

Key Research Areas of IPRIC

IPRIC will focus on a diverse range of research areas, including:

- Contemporary Policing Methods
- Artificial Intelligence and Emerging Technologies
- Juvenile Delinquency and Gang Culture
- ICT, Social Media, Cybercrime and Cybersecurity
- Community Policing and Beat Policing

- Innovative Policing Strategies and Best Global Practices
- Security of Mega Projects and Socio-Economic Implications
- Financial Crimes and Future Crime Trends
- Human Trafficking, Arms Trafficking and Transnational Crimes
- Environmental Crimes and Wildlife Protection

Where Innovation Meets Excellence: Inside IPRIC's Cutting-Edge Labs

Research Ventures 2024 and 2025

Moving forward into the fiscal year 2023-24, our research focus expanded to encompass two pivotal areas: Smart Police Stations and Juvenile Gangs. These initiatives underscore our commitment to addressing emerging challenges and adapting to the Smart policing paradigm. The first project aimed to enhance the analytical capabilities of law enforcement agencies through geographical information systems. The second project is a comprehensive study conducted on cyber tribunals.

Police Staff College Bangladesh: Preparing for the Future

The Police Staff College Bangladesh (PSC) has played a crucial role in shaping the country's law enforcement landscape. As a leading institution for training and research, PSC continues to evolve to address the ever-changing challenges faced by the police force. Looking ahead, the College aims to strengthen its current programs while expanding its reach in leadership development, research, technology integration, and public safety initiatives.

A Tradition of Excellence

Since its inception, PSC has been dedicated to fostering professionalism and ethical leadership within the Bangladesh Police. Its primary goal has always been to equip officers with the skills required to navigate the complexities of modern policing. Over the years, PSC has introduced cutting-edge training programs, research activities, and leadership courses to align with the nation's evolving needs.

A key example of this commitment is the Master of Applied Criminology and Police Management program, which has been enhanced with the addition of new Postgraduate Diploma (PGD) courses. These programs provide officers with insights into contemporary criminology, public safety management, and global law enforcement practices. Additionally, PSC has strengthened its academic and research collaborations through agreements such as the Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with BPATC and United International University (UIU).

Advancing Through Technology and Innovation

PSC recognizes the critical role of technology in modern law enforcement. As digital transformation accelerates, the College is integrating advanced technology into its training curriculum. Courses on cybersecurity, digital forensics, and crime mapping are being incorporated to equip officers with the necessary skills to tackle cybercrime and online threats.

Future plans include the development of smart classrooms, simulation labs, and virtual reality-based training modules. These innovations will allow officers to gain hands-on experience with the latest policing tools. Additionally, PSC is exploring the integration of artificial intelligence and data analytics into training and operations, ensuring that Bangladesh's police force remains aligned with global best practices.

Expanding Research and Development

Research has always been central to PSC's growth strategy. The College actively promotes a strong research culture to analyze crime trends and develop evidence-based solutions for law enforcement. Moving forward, PSC aims to expand its research initiatives through deeper collaborations with national and international universities, think tanks, and law enforcement agencies.

A key initiative in this direction is the planned establishment of a Center for Police Research and Development. This center will focus on conducting empirical studies, formulating policy recommendations, and developing innovative crime prevention strategies. By leveraging data-driven insights, PSC will empower both police practitioners and policymakers to address emerging law enforcement challenges effectively.

Strengthening Global Partnerships

PSC envisions a future where Bangladesh's police officers are not only well-versed in domestic law enforcement but also exposed to international policing best practices. The College has already initiated collaborations with global law enforcement bodies through international conferences, exchange programs, and joint training initiatives.

Looking ahead, PSC aims to deepen its partnerships with international agencies such as Interpol, the United Nations, and INTERPA. Strengthening these global ties will enhance Bangladesh's capacity to combat transnational crimes, including human trafficking, money laundering, and terrorism. These collaborations will ensure that Bangladesh's police force remains agile and well-prepared to address cross-border security challenges.

Leadership Development for Future Policing

Developing strong leadership remains a key focus for PSC. Recognizing the increasing complexity of law enforcement roles, the College has introduced specialized programs to equip senior officers with essential leadership skills. These programs emphasize decision-making, accountability, and ethical governance.

In the future, PSC plans to launch advanced leadership courses in partnership with international institutions. These courses will cover crisis management, strategic planning, and conflict resolution, preparing police leaders to navigate diverse and challenging environments. By fostering leadership excellence, PSC aims to shape a new generation of officers capable of balancing enforcement with community engagement and diplomacy.

Promoting Pro-People Policing

Effective law enforcement relies on strong community relationships. PSC is committed to advancing community policing principles across Bangladesh. The College is expanding training programs that emphasize trust, transparency, and collaboration between police officers and the communities they serve.

New training modules on conflict resolution, communication strategies, and cultural awareness are being designed to help officers build positive relationships with the public. PSC will also continue working with civil society organizations, local governments, and community leaders to implement a holistic approach to public safety.

Addressing Environmental Crimes

With environmental concerns becoming a growing global issue, law enforcement agencies must play a critical role in combating environmental crimes. PSC acknowledges this emerging challenge and is preparing the Bangladesh Police to take a proactive stance in enforcing environmental laws.

Future initiatives include specialized training programs on environmental crime prevention, covering issues such as illegal logging, pollution, and wildlife trafficking. By equipping officers with the knowledge and tools needed to address environmental violations, PSC aims to position Bangladesh's police force as a key player in national and international efforts to protect the environment.

A Vision for the Future

As PSC looks ahead, its mission remains steadfast: to develop a modern, professional, and forward-thinking police force equipped to tackle the challenges of the 21st century. By embracing technological advancements, expanding research, strengthening global partnerships, and fostering leadership and community policing, PSC is poised to drive the transformation of law enforcement in Bangladesh and beyond.
