Message

I am pleased with the significant progress made so far by the Police Staff College Bangladesh reflected in this issue of Newsletter, which has added newer meanings to this state-of-the-art training institute of Bangladesh.

In a word, our core activities are in providing participants with quality and timely trainings programs, being passionate in adapting ourselves to updated methodology & curriculum, maintaining institutional linkage at national and international levels. In line with that, the activities performed from September to December this year by this college ranging from conducting research to publishing journal, imparting knowledge to officers at a leadership level based on up-to-date methodology; arranging seminars, workshops to organizing public events, etc. are undoubtedly laudable. The Police Staff College Bangladesh leaves no stone unturned in inculcating, in the long run, sound professional knowledge and skills into its trainees in order to extend quality services to the marginalized people.

PSC has been creating a new horizon in effective communication in warm collaboration with academicians, intellectuals and police officers at multisectoral levels, different embassies and development partners to brighten up the image of the Bangladesh Police. This issue of Newsletter bears the symbol of the value & role it generates within, and the impacts it has on the overall policing activities in Bangladesh. In this innovative way, it has opened up a whole new vista of communication excellence for all stakeholders.

I am thankful to all faculties and staff who extended their helping hands to bring out this issue. Moreover, I would like to acknowledge and convey the sincerest of my thanks to all members of the editorial board, publishers and backstage heroes who made our journey an easy sailing. At long last, I hope we will all continue to make every possible stride from our respective positions, in the days to come focusing more and more on our sense of patriotism for the betterment of Bangladesh police.

Police Staff College Bangladesh (PSC) and Police Headquarters (PHQ) have launched a joint workshop on 'Reviewing the Key Performance Indicators (KPI) of Bangladesh Police Budget' to introduce a new terminology for measuring police performance which is a key factor for producing Mid-Term Budgetary Framework (MTBF). PSC has stated its mission, and defined its goal already. As directed by this workshop, PSC is now looking for identifying its stakeholders and a way to measure its progress toward those goals. KPI will be those units of measurement.

'All for one and one for all'

PSC's move towards branding

To develop the relationship with others and its image, PSC is moving forward to its branding. PSC, as a center of excellence, needs to brand training & research so that it can be differentiated from other training organization through the use of branding strategies. PSC thinks that corporate engagement would be a crucial strategy in its branding and marketing as it takes into account the perspectives of various stakeholders associated with organizations.

With this motto, PSC starts its corporate engagement highlighting the theme, 'All for one and one for all'. In such persuasion, PSC Convention Hall Management Committee & Swift Solution jointly organized an engagement event with corporate sectors that took place on 6 December, 2014 at PSC Dormitory Dining Hall. Rector, PSC's senior officials and all the directing staff were present in that occasion. This event has followed a formal briefing on PSC facilities and amenities, addresses by Mr. Md. Golam Rasul, MDS (Training) and an open discussion session. Reunion at PSC Convention Hall

24th and 25th BCS Police Batch in their Service Anniversaries

PSC Convention Hall arranged gala programs for the 24th and the 25th BCS Police Forum in commemorating their 9th and 8th service anniversaries in September, 2014. Mr. Hassan Mahmood Khandker bpm, ppm, ndc—the Inspector General of Bangladesh Police was present in both of the occasions as Chief Guest. His presence in the occasion inspired happiness and confidence in fellow colleagues.

Celebrating such anniversary is a kind of showing gratitude for commitment to service which boosts everyone's morale also. Taking a day for such celebration perhaps seems to be extravagant, but it makes the event memorable as an achievement. Both of the groups made the occasions very colourful and cheerful. Profound singers Samina Nabi, Subir Nandi and famous lyricist Shafiq Tuhin performed in that occasion. Noteworthy that 24th BCS Police batch is the biggest batch ever. However, Mr. Proloy Kumar Jourder, bpm, AIG (P&R), PHQ and the President of 24th BCS Police Forum was pragmatic enough to manage such a huge batch and to make the event momentous. At the same time, President of the 25th BCS Police Forum deserved highest appreciation for the successful accomplishment of their program too. PSC senior leaderships were present as invitees in both of the occasions.

Core course for SP

PSC resigned and reintroduced the Police Executive Management Course (PEMC) for the Superintendents of Police after a long time to fulfill its core requirement on training as this course is one of its core courses. As a result, after a long time, PSC successfully conducted the program for two weeks from 19 October to 30 October 2014. The gracious presence of Mr. Hassan Mahmood Khandker bpm, ppm, ndc—the Inspector General of Bangladesh Police (IGP) as Chief Guest and Mr. Md. Moinur Rahman Chowdhury, Additional Inspector General (HRM) as Special Guest at its inaugural session made the course colourful and significant. Moreover, participants enriched themselves considering their knowledge and skill on best practices of financial management at different police unit levels, combating IT based crime, best human resource management and professional accountability while discharging their duties.

Not only is for the academic development, the course is also designed for the enhancement of the interpersonal and cognitive skills of the participants. In such persuasion, PSC's Research, Planning &

Evaluation wing introduced a very rigorous research based activities albeit in the same name- term paper in this course under the able leadership of the wing's commander Mr. Md. Matiur Rahman Sheikh, MDS (Research, Planning & Evaluation). This wing very strictly maintains the research requirements including proper referencing style. PSC, for the first time, fixed APA system for its official referencing style. The participants of this course were actively involved in preparing their term paper manuscripts and presented in front of the audience in the presentation sessions. Police Management Course (PMC)

Core course for ASP/Sr. ASP

Police Management Course (PMC) is the 3rd type core course of PSC among the four. PMC is offered for the Assistant/ Senior Assistant Superintendents of Police (ASP/ Sr. ASP). It is a three-week long course. In this quarter, PSC conducted three PMCs- the 27th, 28th and 29th in September, November and December respectively. In total, sixty (60) ASsP/ Sr. ASsP have been graduated in this course; of them only five (5) were women. Among the three, 28th PMC accommodated the highest number of participants (24), which even exceeded PSC's maximum capacity (22) and the 29th had the exact number of participants (22), while 27th got the lowest (only 14). However, despite having the lowest number, 27th became unique in the last entire year by throwing a gala cultural night, usually known as Rector's night. Thanks to the incumbents of this course for such initiatives. The 27th PMC was coordinated by Mr. M.A Jalil, Deputy Director (Training), 28th by Rawshan Sadia Afroze, Deputy Director (Research & Publication) and 29th by Mr. Ruhul Amin, Assistant Director (Research & Publication).

The curriculum of this course is regularly updated according to the contemporary needs. These are conducted by Mr. Md. Golam Rasul, MDS (Training) and Mr. Shafiqul Islam from Rajarbag Police Hospital, respectively. Moreover, this course becomes delightful with the presence of

Not only with sole production, PSC also conducted courses in collaboration with national and international development partners, e.g. Police Reform Programme (PRP) from UNDP, both Anti-Terrorism Assistance Program (ATA) from US Department of State and International Criminal Investigative Training Assistance Program (ICITAP) from US Department of Justice through the liaison of US Embassy and UNICEF etc. It is a regular phenomenon of PSC. In this tenure, PSC went for joint courses of four (4) with PRP, three (3) with ATA, one (1) with ICITAP and two (2) with UNICEF.

PSC partnership with PRP

Focus on trainer development and quality investigation

PRP conducted several types of courses namely, Training of Trainers course and Interview and Interrogation course. These are very short in duration courses, only three-day long. The training sessions are facilitated by local instructors, primarily from Police. 56 participants from the Interview & Interrogation Course and 18 from the ToT course have been awarded certificates.

Interview and Interrogation course:

Interviewing and Interrogation is the process by which an officer seeks, obtains and evaluates information given by persons having personal knowledge of events or circumstances of a crime. However, it is not an easy process, rather is a daunting task. Moreover, ambiguity is there between the terms of interview and interrogation. Are they similar in police investigation, or different? If so, how they should be managed? Keeping these in mind, PRP arranges another specialized course for the officers involved in police investigation to enhance their investigation skill and to make them understand what the basic difference between interrogation and interview are and what should be the standard techniques for effective investigation. It is a three-day long course conducted one each in every month of this tenure: September, October and November. The participants were in the rank of Sub-Inspector and Inspector. These three training courses awarded certificates to a total fifty six (56) participants on their successful accomplishments.

- Instructors from ATA and FBI

US Embassy has conducted a number of courses at PSC for the capacity building of Bangladesh Police officials in the arena of terrorism, transnational crime, human rights, corruption etc. In doing so, ATA is specific to counterterrorism and related phenomena while ICITAP possesses a comprehensive range of public safety related issues including terrorism, human rights, corruption, transnational crime and other national security related major crimes.

Similar to PRP, US Embassy sponsored courses are also conducted at PSC in a regular basis. However, unlike to PRP, these courses are facilitated by foreign instructors, and hence, there is a provision of language assistance for clear understanding of this course. Moreover, these courses are a bit longer than the PRP, usually ten (10) working days. In Sept-Dec. tenure, US Embassy, Dhaka organized three different types of courses. A total sixty one (61) participants from police and military have been awarded certificates after successful completion of their respective courses.

ACTIVITIES OF RESEARCH PLANNING & EVALUATION (RP & E) WING

PSC has a separate research wing which was introduced two years ago. It has some dedicated officers to pursue its research activities. Among them, Mr. Md. Matiur Rahman Sheikh, MDS (Research, Planning and Evaluation) can be considered as the cornerstone of this wing. He is followed by very devoted police personnel Mr. Mohammad Shahjahan ppm, Director in-Charge (Research, Planning and Evaluation), an appropriate second-in command of him. These leaderships are assisted by a dedicated research team.

PSC has done some significant contribution to its endeavor for excellence under the able leadership of Mr. Matiur. The remarkable achievements are:

Research Highlight:

PSC Journal, October 2014 has been published
Publication of Newsletter Sept-Dec issue
Four research projects are in progress.

administering research projects on policing issues and publishing the outcome; a regular publication of PSC journal, Newsletter and Annual Report; press release of important events and so on. With these research findings, the planning section of this wing provides new ideas and concepts for strengthening training activities and increasing its effectiveness.

In this continuation, PSC's RP & E wing published its October 2014 journal in a regular manner. In this volume, total seven (7) articles have come out successfully with the issues on quality investigation, dynamic of policing, dynamics of urban crimes in dhaka, victimization of garments workers, problems associated with criminal investigation and macroeconomics.

Planning & Evaluation Highlight:

Critical analysis has been introduced in the participant's evaluation system.
APA referencing system has been fixed as formal referencing style.
The total marks have been rearranged in the grading system.

Similarly, this wing accomplishes all evaluation tasks of the training courses and oversees the term paper works of the participants. The wing introduced a new style of evaluation system for the participants, started from PEMC course. The participants are now evaluated on the basis of their critical thinking ability on some specific issues using open source information. Besides the individual critical analysis, term paper manuscript and its presentation are another important part of evaluation system. PSC's Research, Planning & Evaluation wing is responsible to supervise this part of training. This wing makes a continuous research on selecting term paper and rigorously maintains the training requirement of developing the cognitive skill of the participants. Correspondingly, PSC pays special attention to term paper construction and referencing style. That's why, the allocated marks for this assignment are increased and APA referencing style has been introduced and maintained very rigorously. The total marks for the evaluation is re-allocated to be fit the above fashion. Participants' critical thinking ability is considered as the top-level evaluation indicator (60%), followed by term paper (30%) and at the bottom level is class performance (10%).

At this time, the following research projects have been undergoing under the supervision of MDS (RP&E).

Rector and the directing staff of PSC with the participants from Bangladesh Police in a PSC-UNICEF joint training program.

Research Project 1:

Exposure of Illegal Firearms' and Potential Threats in National Security: An Assessment.

The prime researcher: Mr. Prakash Chandra Roy

Synopsis: Illegal firearms are extremely lethal weapon to spread panic, malice and fear of crime in a society. A very densely populated country like Bangladesh has greater impact of a crime occurred by firearms. Here, firearms not only can injure a greater number of people from the single criminal act but also can traumatize many more. There are a number of arms recovery cases handled by Bangladesh Police and Rapid Action Battalion (RAB) which points out the significant existence of illegal firearms in Bangladesh. There is also an upward trend in crimes associated with firearms, observed in the crime statistics. The research is based on mixed methods which aims to analyze the nature and extent of illegal firearms' involvement in crime and violence in Bangladesh and intended to anticipate the future trends accounting for Bangladesh for its recent socio-economic changes.

Research Progress: The details Inception plan has been developed, literature review has been accomplished, research tools have been finalized and questionnaire & check have been produced.

The research outcome is expected to reveal at the end of this financial year.

Research Project 2:

Understanding Police Investigation and Operation in Bangladesh: A Base Line Survey (Phase II)

Main Researcher: Mr. Towhidul Alam Chowdhury

Synopsis: Investigation is essential to in ensuring criminal justice. Still now in Bangladesh, many law enforcing agents have the authority to conduct investigation. However, the performance of those organizations does not meet the public demand. It is obvious that police is entrusted in investigation as per Criminal Procedure Code. The present study is the Phase II of the Baseline Survey earlier conducted by the Agenda for Culture and Society (ACS). Limitation is that, ACS was unable to include all PBI PSs due to budget constraints. The study is a cross-sectional one and relevant quantitative and qualitative data will be collected from both primary and secondary sources. The study will try to establish a database in addition to the earlier which would be used by the PBI to address the issues relating to police investigation and operation more specifically emphasizing the loop holes regarding FIR, limitations of investigation, causes of acquittal, type of cases and situation of major case management including schedule cases of PBI.

Research Progress: Research design has been developed, literature review has been accomplished, research tools such as questionnaire & check list have been finalized and a pilot survey is in progress.

The expected date of completion is at the end of this financial year.

Research Project 3:

Pattern of Service Delivery System in Police Station: Urban and Rural Perspectives PSC

Main Researcher: Mr. Towhidul Alam Chowdhury

Synopsis: The police provide vital services to individual members of the public as well as to society as a whole. Many of us depend on them for information and advice and for help when we are victims of crime; and in turn the police depend heavily on the active support of the general public in the fight against crime. The police service must routinely consider 'what best looks like' from the individual citizen's viewpoint and aim to meet and exceed that standard. But in Bangladesh, most of the people always claim that they are not getting better services from police whereas police stated that they constantly try their best to serve the people though they have different types of limitations. In this research, both methodological triangulation (quantitative and qualitative) and data triangulation (primary and secondary source) methods will be used. The research is based on triangulation of Survey, KII and FGD. Moreover, secondary review will be carried out for the enhancement of the study.

Research Progress: Research design has been developed, literature review has been accomplished, theoretical framework has been prepared, research tools such as questionnaire & check list have been finalized.

The expected date of completion is at the end of this financial year.

Research Project 4:

Stakeholder's expectation: challenges and potentialities of tourist police (a study on Cox's Bazar and other tourist place).

Main Researcher: Mr. Mujib Ahmmad Patwary

Synopsis: Tourism offers immense potentiality for employment generation, poverty alleviation and maintaining ecological balance. Although Bangladesh Tourism Industry has a very high potentiality, there are some challenges hindering the proper utilization of such potential opportunities. The most challenging factor is the lacking of ensuring the security of the visitors. Tourist police is a new introduction to Bangladesh considering such weaknesses. The study is mainly the dynamics of tourist police and its expected outcome.

This study had the following research question:

- What are the expectations of the tourist stakeholders from the tourist police?
- What type of security measures have been ensured by them and how the effective security can be provided?
- What are the strength and weakness of them?
- What types of underlying potentialities are in the newer unit of Bangladesh police
- What types of challenges are faced by this unit and how to solve these?

Research Progress: Research design has been developed, literature review has been accomplished, theoretical framework has been grounded, finalizing of research tools such as questionnaire & check list is in progress.

The expected date of completion is at the end of this financial year.

DEVELOPMENT ACTIVITIES
